| | il prices rose today as crude stocks declined again and refinery |
| | ilization rose to highest level since pre-pandemic. US crude inventories |
| de | eclined by 1MM/bbls last week, compared to a forecasted draw of 740K/ |
| | ols. Gasoline inventories decreased by 500K/bbls and distillate |
| | ventories increased by 1.7MM/bbls. Refined products exports were |
| | ore than 6.2MM/bpd, which is in part driving the higher refinery |
| ut | ilization rates, along with expected higher gasoline demand in the |
| | Immer driving season. Utilization came in at 93.2% last week, the |
| hi | ghest since December of 2019. "We're not seeing any elasticity in |
| re | fined products demand," said Gary Cunningham, director of market |
| re | esearch at Tradition Energy. "People are still going to drive; people are |
| st | ill driving." WTI traded up $.56 or .51% to close at $110.33. Brent |
